

VIRGINIA H. DALE

Dr. Virginia Dale is a landscape ecologist in the Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology at the University of Tennessee and Corporate Fellow Emeritus at Oak Ridge National Laboratory. She earned a M.S. in Mathematics from the University of Tennessee and a Ph.D. in Mathematical Ecology at the University of Washington. Her research focuses on environmental decision making, succession, ecosystem management in view of disturbances and climate change, sustainability of agricultural landscapes and energy systems, and stakeholder engagement. Her work has resulted in 11 books and more than 285 scientific articles, chapters and reports. She has served on scientific advisory boards for five US agencies and several committees of the National Academies of Science. She contributed to the 2007 IPCC Scientific Assessment that received the Nobel Peace Prize. She was the Distinguished Landscape Ecologist of the North American Regional Association of the International Association for Landscape Ecology in 2013 and chair of that society from 2000 to 2002. In 2006 she was the Distinguished Scientist for Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

